Brief Intro:

Since receiving her Master's in English, Mrs. Lohmeyer has taught high school and college-level classes for over ten years. She has taught English, reading, and writing remotely for over a decade and find working with students around the world to be very rewarding. She relied on her success as a teacher in her work as a high school administrator who designed curriculum for a highly successful high school in north Florida. As someone who has spent her life in education, Mrs. Lohmeyer has enjoyed working with every possible kind of student. Through these experiences, she has learned how to quickly discern areas of strength and need in order to facilitate intellectual and academic growth. She approaches teaching holistically with kindness and tenacity. Mrs. Lohmeyer believes that by never giving up on a student's potential, we teach them not to give up on themselves or others.
